

The winery is located in the heart of Chablis, where tradition and modernism coexist, they are the image of this family proud of its know-how. 1792 is the date of the first title deed to the Collet house. In 1932 what we call Viñas Viejas today were planted. In 1952 Jean Collet owned 61 hectares of vineyards that he cultivated. He begins by selling his harvest wholesale to merchants. In 1954 he began bottling his wine, and by 1959 he was already exporting his products under the name Domaine Collet throughout Europe. In 1979 Gilles Collet (current winemaker) joined his father and the company was renamed Domaine Jean Collet et Fils.

As an experiment, a plot was designated in 1999 to carry out tests with a 'biological' spirit: exclusively organic amendments, phytosanitary treatments with...
