

Founded in 1999, it is currently one of the leaders in quality in the region, considered one of the most prestigious in Argentina. Susana Balbó studied at the Don Bosco School of Oenology and in 1981 received her degree in Oenology as the best cum laude graduate, becoming the first woman winemaker in Argentina. After managing several wineries such as Martins and Catena Zapata in Salta and Luján de Cuyo, she went on to fulfill her dream and produce her own wine with her own firm. He has since acquired other classified vineyards in the region, currently having 5 estates.
